Cambridge Child Care Centers

This list includes all centers in Cambridge that are licensed by the Massachusetts Department of Early Education and Care (EEC) and serve the general public. Child care centers are licensed to provide care for specific age groups, defined as follows:

Infant:	birth to 14 months
Toddler:	15 months to 2.8 years (meaning 2 years, 8 months)
Preschooler:	2.9 years (2 years, 9 months) to 6.0 years (6 years, 0 months)
School Age:	Kindergarten (generally 5 years) and older

Information for this listing was gathered from individual centers by the Center for Work, Family & Personal Life, and should be verified during your search to ensure that it is current. The Center has not screened or evaluated any of these programs, and cannot recommend individual centers. All responsibility for program evaluation and selection rests with parents and guardians. Because careful evaluation is critical, we encourage you to make full use of Center resources, including written materials and consultations, to assist you in selecting a program for your child.

Information is also available, on request, from the Center on the following types of early childhood programs that are not included in this listing:

Public School Early Childhood Programs

A limited number of preschool classrooms are operated by public school systems for children with diagnosed special needs in integrated settings, together with non-special needs children.

Parochial and Independent School Preschool Programs

Some parochial (Catholic) and independent (private) schools offer preschool programs, generally for 4 - year olds only.

Preschool Programs for Special Populations

Private programs approved by the Massachusetts Department of Education under chapter 766 to serve children with special needs, including medical needs.

Head Start Programs

Free, federally-funded programs serving children ages 3 to 5 from low-income families who meet eligibility requirements.

After School Programs

Programs serving school-age children, including before-school, after-school, and vacation care.

You may find the following notes on terminology useful for reading this list:

Age range:	Refers to ages of children served, at enrollment or the beginning of the school year. Centers may use different age cut-offs than are used for licensing purposes (above).
Schedules and fees:	Except as noted, fees are provided only for full-week programs (5 days/week). Information regarding the availability of part-week schedules is also provided.
Program capacity:	Refers to the maximum number of children of each age group who may be registered to attend at the same time. Centers may choose to cap actual enrollment somewhere below maximum capacity.
Subsidies	“Contracted slots”, “vouchers”, and “community partnerships” are subsidy available: programs administered by state agencies to benefit income- and need-eligible Massachusetts families; more information is available from the MIT Center for Work, Family & Personal Life on these programs. “Scholarships” are provided by the centers themselves, for low- and moderate-income families.
Parent co-op requirements:	Co-operatives (“co-ops”) involve parents in special ways, often as classroom assistants, to benefit children and parents and sometimes to reduce costs. Center-specific requirements are described.
Enrollment priorities:	Centers usually enroll on a first-come, first-served basis, although many give priority to siblings and alums and may consider age, gender, or racial balance as well. Additional center-specific enrollment criteria, such as giving preference to employees of certain companies, are described.
Kindergarten program:	Some preschools serve children through the kindergarten year, either in mixed-age groupings, or in a separate class; very useful for parents looking for full-day care.
Is summer a separate contract period?	Centers handle contracts differently, including contract periods. Some programs allow withdrawals with two months notice at any time of the year, for example, while others require a year’s commitment. Some programs treat summer enrollment separately, sometimes calling it “summer camp”, allowing changes in summer schedules and for extended absences without financial obligation.
Accreditation	The National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) offers a voluntary accreditation program. Standards go beyond those of state EEC licensing to include additional qualitative measures. Accreditation is typically granted for three years, and renewable.
